

Germany, a European country

Germany is an important country in the world and it is also a neighbouring country of the Netherlands. From 1949 to 1990, there were two Germanies: the Federal Republic of Germany (West Germany) and the German Democratic Republic (East Germany)

The two Germanies joined together again in 1990, but there are still important differences between east and west. What those differences are will be explained in this chapter. You will study the following regions: the Ruhr Area, Halle-Leipzig and the city of Berlin. But let's start by looking at Germany as a whole.

This chapter is concluded with a big study. You can find the relevant information under the button 'practice'. We wish you lots of fun and good luck!
