

The Netherlands in the world

The Netherlands is very much connected with the rest of the world. Millions of tons of goods from around the world find their way into the port of Rotterdam. Millions of travellers pass through Schiphol airport for business or pleasure. Dutch companies have invested millions of euros in dozens of countries.

On the other hand, tens of thousands of people work in the Netherlands for foreign companies. This chapter is about the role of the Netherlands in the European and global flows of goods, persons and money.
