

The Dutch landscape

This chapter discusses the landscapes of the Netherlands. There are many differences. This is due to the way in which landscapes have been formed by nature, but particularly due to human intervention. This chapter studies the causes of those changes. Finally, you will have a look at the future of landscapes. Will variety be maintained, do landscapes disappear as a result of urbanisation or are Dutch landscapes turning into marshlands more and more?

